PERSONAL MENTION

Jack Prendergast was in from his ranch near Vancouver yesterday.
W. R. Taylor of Athens, a brother of Sheriff Taylor, is here today.
"Jinks" will take his usual prominent part in staging the Round-up this year.

BOY FOUND.

happened before leaving and several cartridges were missing. On the following Sunday he appeared at the Alta House and sold a bill he owed.
Mr. Stephenson states that he appeared to have plenty of money. He stated that Owens had met a party of friends about four miles out of town and had gone with them to Indian, after selling part of his stuff to him. Richardson then went out to work for Frank Praxier.

Suspect Paul May.
The more Stephenson and Sims looked into the matter, the more they became suspicious of foul play, and more than a week ago reported the matter at the sheriff's office. At the time Sheriff Taylor and Deputy Estes were absent on their hunt for the Jallweakers, leaving the office short-handed. They also reported the matter to District Attorney Steiwer who arrived at the same conclusions as they.

Sheriff Investigates.
On the return of Sheriff Taylor with the escaped prisoners, he began at once to investigate the disappearance of Owens. He found that Richardson had not only sold the four horses but also the wagon and harness of Owens at about a third their value. Knowing that there were a number of old wells in the Despain gulch country and that Richardson would probably be aware of their location because of the fact that he had once farmed in that locality, the sheriff yesterday sent a man named Dickey, who is familiar with that locality, to ride over the country.

Arriving at the S. B. Elder place on Despain gulch, 17 miles from Pendleton, he learned that Richardson had stayed all night there on Monday, the 23rd and had, on the following morning, borrowed a shovel, stating that he wanted to dig out a coyote.
He returned the shovel about three hours later, saying that he had had his digging for nothing.

Tracks Lead to Well.
Dickey then began searching for the old wells. About three miles from the Elder place he found wagon tracks leading from the road into a sagebrush bottom. They lead to the edge of a large abandoned well about 14 feet deep and there were indications of fresh dirt having been thrown into the well.

He did not investigate further, but telephoned to the sheriff who at once arrested Richardson whom he found at the Oregon Feed Yard. He asked Richardson point blank whether he killed Owens and Richardson answered in the negative, saying Owens had gone to Idaho. He said he purchased three horses from Owens but not the wagon or harness. Sheriff Taylor did not inform him of the investigation which had been made and has not yet told him of the finding of the body. It is believed that, when confronted with all the facts ascertained that Richardson will confess.

Body Unearthed.
Sheriff Taylor, Deputy Estes and Coroner Brown left in the evening in the sheriff's auto and were guided to the old well by Dickey. Under a few inches of dirt they found a badly decomposed body and brought it to the city. Save for the general build of the body nothing was recognizable but the clothes were positively identified as belonging to Owens. On the inside of the inside coat pocket was written the name "J. B. Owens" and the initials "J. B. O." were stamped on the lining of the coat. The shoes and hat were identified as those worn by Owens while in the city. The body was so decomposed and covered with dirt that no bullet holes were found, but the undertakers will put it in a solution of formaldehyde for a few days, after which they can make a better examination.

The theory of the officers is that Richardson lured Owens into the sparsely settled country around De-spain gulch and murdered him, probably in the wagon by shooting him.
The murder might have been committed, they think, in an abandoned cabin, as Richardson had spoken to Owens about "batching" in an old cabin. Sheriff Taylor believes the man was probably shot in the back while he was unaware of the other's murderous intentions.

Richardson Well Known.
The alleged murderer is well known in Pendleton and Umatilla county.
Up until about nine years ago, he farmed extensively on the place now owned by George Ness and not a mile and a half from where the body was found. Something like 20 years ago he served 14 months in the penitentiary for stealing a cow from Dr. W.
R. Campbell and popular suspicion has fastened incendiary jobs to him.
For the past few years he has been in the "down and out" class, working at odd jobs but seldom holding them.
Physically he was not strong and was recently hurt while working on the new wing of the Eastern Oregon State Hospital. He is between 45 and 50 years old. His wife divorced him some years ago, securing the custody of their children, and later married to Tom Purdy, and going to Idaho.
According to Mr. Stephenson, Owens told him that he had married Mrs.
Purdy and intended sending for her to come here to spend the winter.

Little is known here of the murdered man. He made a number of friends while here and was credited with being a very shrewd dealer in horses. He had a trunk, a violin and other possessions and took them in the wagon with him. They have not yet been located but it is believed Richardson disposed of them. He had $265 in a local bank and the officers believe Richardson might have thought he had this money on him.

Shoots Wife, Then Himself.

helm Armbruster, proprietor of the Hotel George, shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide.

The bodies were found in a bedroom by Armbruster's mother-in-law. It was believed a jealous quarrel caused the shooting. Two children, nine and three, survive.

Amusements

"Island of Regeneration."

Picturizing one of Cyrus Townsend Brady's novels, the Pastime theater presents Sunday "The Island of Regeneration," a story of two castaways on a South Pacific island. It is one of the Vitaphone's greatest achievements, for the highly colored tale is a series of beautiful pictures that move from Virginia in the seventies to the southern isle, and from social affairs in "Primo" to a tableau of Edith Storey as a crouching nymph beside a pool.

Oh, yes, the nude in the motion picture art has arrived, for here this fine actress, in order to properly present the story, must needs join her slender player of another film in the undressed tableau. There is nothing offensive in the picture. Miss Storey is shown bathing in a secluded pool on the lonesome islet, and as she had few clothes she had to swim in nature's clothing. When she crouches hidden in a secret cave above the water the posture is artistic and with no touch of undue revelation. As she lithely swims about her poses are those of unconscious grace.

The story is of a society girl who goes a-cruising with a yachtman in defiance of conventions. When he eventually attempts to win her by force she jumps into a gasoline launch in which she drifts to an island. On it lives a man who was cast away there as a boy. She would teach him English, but he learns—love. Three years after rescue comes, but because of a lying accusation destroys his faith in her she makes him believe she has ended her life. He goes to America, but after more years returns to her.
It is all pictured in entrancing fashion.—Adv.

Watch Renewing

We prefer the word renew to the word repair, when speaking of the work we do in this department of Sawtelle's service.

The aim is to renew—to restore the watch to its original state, and make it as accurate in its time keeping properties as it was when first purchased.

We are just as particular with the work of jewelry renewing and the overhauling and renewing of clocks, silver and gold ware, etc.

All such work go back to you with the look and feeling of newness—you may depend upon any work you entrust to this department being well done.
